

If animals could talk it would tell me, “Hey, the water is too cold”, or maybe it will say this; “Hey it’s too cold outside, let me in!” So you should be nice enough to open the door. If animals could talk they would say, “I’m thirsty please give me water”!

So think to yourself how the world would be better if animals could talk. They would tell us when they are sick. You should love pets and take care of it. The first thing your dog would tell you is “How are you and where am I?” It would be so curious when they see your house. At first, they are scared and grateful for the person who rescued him or her from where they call jail, trapped in those big cages called the pound. Every dog goes there when they are found.

Did you ever wonder how your dog feels when you are being mean with a cat? You might think cats and dogs hate each other, well think again. If a dog and a cat meet each other when they are small, they become friends.

ANIMAL TALK

Hi, my name is Erin Sotelo and I want to share what I think animals would say if they could talk. I would say that Mrs. Varney is right about her grandma’s cat that always looked at her like she wanted to tell her something. But what could it have been that the cat wanted to say to Mrs. Varney?

Well some people say people mostly can communicate with dogs. Maybe we can also communicate with cats too, but what is bad is that we can’t communicate like talking. Only we guess how they react like if they are whining that means they are hungry, sad, or scared.

If an animal could talk, it would ask, “Can you feed me” and say “I need all of my shots.” It will also say when it wants to play, when it is sleepy and it will call the owners name out loud when it is in trouble, and when it needs a shower. Well you can smell when it needs a bath.

Without animals, we would not have meat to eat and without spiders, we would live like we live in a junkyard because spiders help us by eating bugs. Also, they would tell us how to help other animals that are almost extinct like green sea turtles, pandas, snow leopards, mountain gorillas, Atlantic salmon, and blue whales.

Other animals will be extinct. That’s why they could tell us how to take care of them or adopt them. Animals could tell us who is killing a lot of these animals so we can put these people in jail or maybe it is the weather or something.
