In these days we see a lot of homeless dogs and cats in the streets, this is happening because pet owners are not taking care of their pets. These dogs and cats suffer the impact to be a homeless pet. For example; they do not have nutritional food, they do not have a safe place to sleep and finally they do not have enough water to clean themselves. It is necessary to pay attention to this problem and look forward to a solution.

First, these animals do not have nutritious food, and have to eat what they find on the street or what people give them, such as household pets they do not know how to find food in the streets and many of them end up starving. They need to change what they eat.

The second problem is; dogs and cats do not have a safe place to live, so they have to seek shelter under bridges or under park benches. Dogs and cats both need to have a safe place to stay. It is dangerous for dogs and cats, because they know not to walk in the streets and traffic, and are not used to live that way, we can also add the weather we have here in Texas, at a time it is hot and in a second it gets icy.

Finally, there is the problem of hygiene such they have no one to keep them clean, they begin to have shabby appearance and people start to reject them. They have to find some way to keep clean, and use the water fountains of parks and yard sprinklers, but these types of cleaners are not enough to stay healthy, and slowly they begin to have disease.

In conclusion, there are several ways to solve this problem, if you look down the street a homeless pet, call animal rescue center in your city or you can take him home and give him a bath and food, and you can make it your pet. There are several rescue centers for animals, especially for Pit Bulls, for example, Villalobos Rescue Center. You can find all information about this rescue center on Animal Planet the show is called Pit Bulls and Parolees. When I grow up, I would like to study the care of animals and have my own rescue center.
