Welcome our newest instructor Jessica Taylor
Jessica will be teaching kids classes, and possibly other workshop classes in the coming months. Jessica has a strong background in education and will be an excellent edition to team here at Bicentennial Art Center. Please stay tuned for more information and details on the classes she will be teaching.

Bisque ware needs to be paid for when leaving the building
Starting in October we are requiring students to pay for all ware leaving Bicentennial Art Center. Previously we did not require students to pay for bisque ware that was going to be brought back and fired in a future class. We want to inform everyone of this change to make this transition in the way we handle bisque work as smooth as possible.

Tips for the fall
- It will be getting darker earlier as we move into Fall, and we want all students to practice awareness in the parking lot as you are coming and going when it is dark outside. Be sure to check your surroundings and walk out in groups if possible.
- With inclement weather please come prepared to transverse snow and ice. Wear shoes that give you the most traction possible, and dress in layers so you can keep warm on your walk into the building.
- DON’T leave your clay in the trunk of your car. If the clay freezes it will be very hard to bring back to usable clay, and this can only be achieved by lots of wedging. We still have a couple of lockers available if you would like to store your clay here.

Lockers need to be cleared out at the end of November
Lockers need to be cleared out by November 30th at 5:00 pm. Just like last year we will be cleaning all lockers to help cut down on dust in the studio. When you come back in January you must rent you old locker by January 20th. If you don’t your locker will no longer reserved for you and open for anyone to rent.

Open hours
Open hours here at Bicentennial Arts Center are only available to our current students. There are several class options for open hours as well as by the hour rates. Ask our front staff about which one best fits your needs.